HARTFORD WEEKLY HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1908.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.
PROF. J. B. HILL.
 A committee for the purpose of organizing a new organization of public instruction, under the name of the Hartford Public Schools, has been organized, and will meet on Wednesday, March 12, at 8 o'clock, at the Hartford Public Schools, in the building on the corner of Main and Elm streets.

THE DISTRIBUTION.
 MORE THAN $100 GIVEN AWAY TO THE HERALD PATRONS.

THE PRIZES AND WHO DREW THEM.

The distribution of gifts on last Saturday, called together a vast concourse of people. The day was most propitious, the bright skies and balmy air lent additional charms to the occasion. It was early dawn to high noon the animated stream poured in from every quarter. The Circuit Court room was selected as being the most suitable place in which to have the drawing, and to accommodate the large crowd anxious to behold every step in the entire transaction. The room was beautifully decorated, fine landscape paintings, framed red engravings in massive gilt frames were tastefully arranged. Seating mediums and other useful and elegant articles in prominent positions. The fine gold watch, in its rich velvet case, filled many a heart with a secret wish to be its fortunate possessor. The back ground revealed the brilliant folds of the "Story Flag" waving still, over the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave." The agricultural implements, on exhibition on the streets, elicited high eulogiums as to their worth and beauty.

A committee, irrespective of party or location, was appointed, consisting of the following named gentlemen: Prof. W. T. Hill, E. D. Walker, W. P. Reader, W. F. Gregory, D. S. Dunham, W. B. Hayward, and W. N. Stewart. These gentlemen met at the Herald office, the books containing the names and numbers of the subscribers entitled to gifts, and the names and numbers of the prizes were placed in their hands for examination. It is almost needless to say that the books underwent a rigid scrutiny. The tickets corresponding both to the subscribers' names and to the names of the prizes were placed in their hands for examination. Each paid up subscriber, as we promised, who did not draw one of the 176 large prizes, is entitled to a 25 cent premium, which will be sent to each one in the mail, thus making every promise made by the Herald. A list of the names of the subscribers who drew the prizes is as follows: W. T. Hill, E. D. Walker, W. P. Reader, W. F. Gregory, D. S. Dunham, W. B. Hayward, and W. N. Stewart. where, and Miss Laura Love and George Kimbley, two popular and beautiful little girls were the winners of the tickets from the wheels. W. N. Stewart, D. S. Dunham, and W. P. Reader, E. D. Walker, supervised the wheels.

The causes which led to posthumous and the absolute impossibility of having the distribution on the day first announced, and the continued and anxious labors which were necessary in order that there might be no second postponement, were fully and clearly explained. Prof. Hayward followed speaking for the committee, declaring that each member was perfectly satisfied as to the fairness of the whole scheme, and that a vote by the committee was taken, unanimously declaring that as far as human agency was concerned, everything was fair and honest, concluding with, "Now the time for talking has ended, and the time for action has arrived, turn the wheels!"

The wheels made five or six revolutions, each little newspaper of the intimated her hand, brought forth a ticket which was handed to the tellers, who in turn gave the ticket to the judges and by them read to those in charge of the books. The names and numbers of the subscribers were read in clear ringing tones, heard in every corner of the room, those containing the name and numbers of the presents were read in like manner. This was continued until 12 o'clock, when the drawing of the wheel. The remaining presents being of equal value, it was not necessary to continue the drawing.

The distribution occupied about three hours, during which the most perfect order prevailed every step being taken to insure the fairness of the drawing.
